The Consumer Rights Litigation Conference and Class Action Symposium

2021 Consumer Rights Litigation Conference and Consumer Class Action Symposium

The 2021 Consumer Rights Litigation Conference (CRLC) will be held virtually again this year, on weekdays from December 6-16, 2021. The 2021 Virtual CRLC will include 45 substantive sessions covering every area of consumer law, and we’re working with community leaders to build a robust series of engagement opportunities as well. Our Class Action sessions will take place during week two as well. Last year’s virtual event ended up as the most well-attended conference in NCLC’s history, and post-conference feedback was highly positive, so we’re looking forward to another big audience online this year — though we can’t wait to get the entire community back together in person in 2022!

Eligibility

NCLC ensures that all conferences benefit and educate those who solely represent consumers.

1. You are a lawyer and that neither you nor anyone in your organization represents business or commercial clients (except in disputes between two businesses) or is engaged in any business other than providing legal representation to consumers, OR

2. You are an employee of a state or federal regulatory or enforcement agency or of a state or federally funded nonprofit legal aid organization.

Non-attorneys who work for nonprofit organizations should email attendance@nclc.org with the name of their employer and a brief description of what they do prior to registering

Are you interested in sponsoring the Virtual CRLC? Please contact training@nclc.org for more details.
