Class Actions and Access to Justice

Class actions provide a means for people to band together to pursue justice when companies engage in widespread violations of the law. Without class actions, it is often infeasible for a consumer to hire a lawyer to pursue a claim for a small dollar amount. Class actions also enable courts to assess and remedy the full scope of a company’s wrongdoing. NCLC opposes efforts to curtail class actions or otherwise restrict access to justice.

Take Action to Defend Class Actions

Policy Analysis

Letters

Press Releases

- Class Actions Matter: Consumers Mislabeled as Terrorists Win Record $60 Million against TransUnion for Violating Key Consumer Protection Law, June 21, 2017

Related Publications

- Class Actions
- Consumer Arbitration Agreements

Arbitration and Access to Justice Archive