

Consumer letter to Uniform Law Commission opposing revisions to Uniform Unclaimed Property Act

We are writing to express our collective concern with the current draft of the revised Uniform Unclaimed Property Act (UUPA). The fundamental changes to state unclaimed property laws represented in the current draft would be harmful to consumers throughout the country, making it more likely that they will lose property that today would be found and reclaimed. In this letter we address several of our biggest concerns, which we urge you to reconsider in your final draft. Read more >>>
