State & Local Relief

NCLC is tracking state and local government responses to the coronavirus that are relevant to the collection of non-mortgage consumer debts, including:
• Prohibition of Certain Collection Practices – Entries track practices in the collection of civil, non-mortgage debts by debt collectors or creditors that have been temporarily prohibited due to the coronavirus.

• Non-essential Business Closure Orders – Entries track the impact of non-essential business closure orders on debt collection practices. Entries highlighted in green indicate debt collection agencies can continue to operate despite the closure of non-essential businesses. Entries highlighted in red indicate state actions that prohibit collection from operating under the order. The remainder do not explicitly reference collection agencies and are left to interpretation.

• Can Debt Collectors Work from Home? – Entries track orders and guidance related to whether debt collectors can work from home. Only highlights guidance that has been issued in relation to the coronavirus. Some jurisdictions may have had prior guidance.

• Bar on Collection of Debts Owed to State/Local Government – Entries track state and city temporary orders that have been enacted to bar the collection of debts owed to the government.

• Suspension of Certain Court Proceedings Related to Debt Collection – Entries include a non-comprehensive list of courts that have suspended certain judicial proceedings or activities related to the collection of civil, non-mortgage debts. For more about state court closures see the National Center for State Courts website.

• Calls to Action – Entries track calls to action from legislators, attorneys general, businesses, and advocates to state governments and industry leaders calling for collection moratoriums and other debt collection related consumer protections.

• Other Debt Collection Responses – Entries include responses by states that do not fall into one of the other categories, such as new legislation relating to debt collection during the coronavirus pandemic and recommendations for collection practices from state agencies.
