

Getting Started in Student Loan Law Part 3: Federal Student Loan Repayment Options and Default Resolution

This will be the third session in a series of student loan webinars. This session will cover the basics on how to get federal student loan borrowers out of default, pros and cons of each method, and the various loan repayment options/eligibility for borrowers not in default. It will also include information about ongoing problems in these areas, as well as information on the proposed rules for the newest income driven repayment plan.

Speakers: Adam Minsky, Attorney (Law Office of Adam Minsky) and Persis Yu, Staff Attorney (National Consumer Law Center).

